The Gentleman's Magazine.

The proprietors have much pleasure in announcing to the reading public, the complete success which has attended the establishment of this Magazine—a success far beyond their utmost expectations, considerably exceeding the prosperity of any publication in America. The daily increasing subscription list, and the numerous commendatory notices of the press, attest the merits and the popularity of the Gentleman's Magazine, each number of which contains more

ORIGINAL MATTER

any other monthly publication in the United States.

CONTENTS.

Original Tales of Powerful Interest.—Humorous and Graphic Descriptions of Men and Manners.—Novel Sketches of Foreign Lands; Poetry; Characteristic Studies on Popular Subjects, and Biographical Notices of Celebrated or Eccentric Persons, with many Original Anecdotes. The Lives of Paganini, with likenesses; Prince de Ligne; M. de Kers; [Box], the author of the Black Papers; with a likeness; Dr. John Faust; a Sorcerer; The Duchess of St. Albans; and the Negro Queen, have already been given. The new Publications are reviewed in full; liberal extracts made from rare and valuable work—presenting a complete account of the Popular Literature of the day. An Original Copy Right Song, not otherwise to be obtained, will be given, with the music, every number.

The Gentleman's Magazine will contain seventy extra sized octavo pages, of two columns each, making, at the close of the year, two large handsome volumes of One Thousand Seven Hundred and twenty-eight columns, each column containing more than an octavo page of average proportion, and each monthly number has more reading matter in a volume of a novel. The work is neatly printed on good paper, and stitched in a neat colored cover. Several engravings will be given in the course of the year, and the proprietors pledge themselves to produce an agreeable book—an epitome of Life's adventures—a Literary Melange possessing variety to suit all palates, and sufficient interest to command a place upon the parlor table of every gentleman in the United States.

AN ENGRAVED TITLE PAGE, of superior execution, embracing every possible variety of PICTORIAL DISPLAY, and executed in first style of Art, by J. ADAMS, of New York, accompanies the OCTOBER NUMBER.

Terms—$3 per annum.

To induce subscribers to forward their names immediately, the publisher begs leave to offer the following extra inducements for Clubbing, the advantages of which proposition can only remain a force till Christmas next. The subscription to the Gentleman's Magazine will, for a single copy, invariably Three Dollars per annum, payable in advance—but a five dollar bill will produce two copies to the same direction, or a club of Ten Dollars will command five copies. oct 14-37

C. B. FISHER.
Bloomsburg, Sept. 30, 1837.

Legislative Keystone.

During the ensuing session of the legislature, the Keystone will be published twice a week, and contain full reports of the proceedings in both houses. It will also contain an account of the proceedings of the reform convention, which, (judging from similar bodies in other states and the convention that formed our present constitution), will hardly close its session before spring.

The political complexion of the legislature and the important subject which will necessarily come before it, will render the next session peculiarly interesting. All eyes are turned this way for speedy reform in our present defective currency. Decided action relative to the improvement system is ardently desired in many quarters. These two matters of themselves, form subjects of intense interest to the people at large.

On the 4th of March, a democratic convention will assemble here and nominate a candidate for governor. An account of this, together with the preparatory movements of the party in all quarters, will be faithfully detailed. From these circumstances, there never was a time when a paper from the seat of government will be of such indispensable value to all the citizens of the commonwealth, as for the ensuing six months.

The terms of the Keystone are the same as heretofore.

During the session semi weekly $2.00
For the year 5.00
Any person forwarding us $2.00 shall receive the Keystone from the time of subscribing to the close of the session—or six copies sent to any one office for $10.

PROSPECTUS OF THE ### Pennsylvania Farmer, And Common School Intelligencer.

A semi-monthly publication devoted to Agriculture, Gardening, and the General Improvement of the Mind, published at Harrisburg, Pa. by BENJAMIN PARKE.

Nothing need be said as to the importance of the science of agriculture, which being the great business of our country, the sure road to competency and the main source of wealth, lies at the foundation of our national prosperity. The experience of every year, and especially of the last few years, has shown that agriculture has been entirely too much neglected for the best good of our country. The great desire of the present age for the accumulation of wealth, and the prevailing spirit to seek for it in a new and shorter course, than that pursued by our ancestors, had led many from the slow but certain means of agricultural labor, to the more alluring employments of professional life, and commercial enterprise, or the still more hazardous fields of speculation and adventure, in which a few have succeeded even beyond their own expectations. The result of this unnatural state of things has been what might very well have been predicted; a great scarcity of all the products of the soil, with such an enormous increase in the price, as to cause their importations from foreign countries, to the great impoverishing and discredit of our own.

This folly and these evils have now become apparent, and many of those who, having been lured by the examples and success of others, or the prospect held out to their view, from the producing to the consuming class, and being disappointed in their expectations, are now disposed to, and are making arrangements to return to the home, the healthful and the independent employment of tilling the soil—where they are sure of being amply recompensed for their labor.

Pennsylvania is emphatically an agricultural state, and has thus suffered less from the late fluctuations and changes, which have embarrassed our country, than any of her sister states. Her soil is not surpassed by any in the world, and her German and other citizens are justly celebrated as being among the first farmers in the Union. It has therefore been considered peculiarly proper, that in the heart of this garden of our country, an agricultural paper should be established, to gather up the experience of intelligent farmers from all quarters, and send it abroad, not only over our commonwealth, but to every part of the United States. For the purpose of doing this, and supplying what has been considered a desideratum among the periodicals of our states, the publisher has been induced and encouraged by numerous friends of agriculture and general improvement, to establish the Pennsylvania Farmer. He has received assurances which lead him confidently to expect that its columns will be enriched with contributions from some of the most distinguished scientific and practical farmers and gardeners in our own, as well as some of our sister states, which with extracts and republishings of standard and new works upon the science of agriculture, will render it both interesting and useful to every farmer who desires to excel in his most laudable employment.

Pennsylvania has established and is now maturing a system of general education by common schools, which is intended to carry the blessings of knowledge to every man's home, and place within the reach of every child in the commonwealth, the means of instruction and improvement. This object is all important, and our means being ample, it is confidently hoped that the plan will continue to be improved & carried out, till the minds of our citizens shall be as highly cultivated as their fields, and the harvest of intellect be as rich and abundant as that gathered from the soil. Then shall Pennsylvania be indeed the Keystone of our Union, bearing a polish not equaled by any state or kingdom in the world.

The events of the last few months have shown that an increasing interest is felt in this department and therefore it cannot be doubted but that the Common School Intelligencer will be welcomed as a co-laborer in so important a work, and being made the vehicle of communication between the friends of education, and in the proper arranging and developing of the system, and be the means of doing much good.

To the advancement of these objects, and to the dissemination of useful scientific information calculated to expand the mind and improve the heart, shall the columns of the Pennsylvania Farmer and Common School Intelligencer, be exclusively devoted, and it is confidently expected that a generous public will award to it a liberal support.

The Farmer and Intelligencer will be printed upon fine white paper and with new type, in royal quarto form, each number containing eight pages of matter. It will be commenced in the month of November, or as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained to justify the expense, and regularly issued during the first and third weeks of every month, at ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM payable before the issuing of the sixth number. Any person who will procure and forward ten responsible subscribers shall receive a copy, or eleven papers will be sent to any one office for $10.

Post masters and others friendly to the objects are requested to act as agents in obtaining subscribers, and forward the names to the publisher on or before the first of November next.

Harrisburg, October 21, 1837.
